

Wait and Wish

I am hardworking and determined.
I wonder when I will be at school again.
Playing football with my friends, in the blossoming park,
Or sledding down the hill, in the chilly winter.

I miss having lunch with my friends,
Deep in conversation.

I hear the insects chirp outside my room while studying.
I see my garden from my window and long to be at school.

Delicious meals of steak fill my mind as I dream of being at a restaurant.

I feel my book as I sit, reading endlessly.
I worry that quarantine will never end, lying down on my bed
After a day of hard work.

I dream of slicing the water when the pools open.
Free in the cool water, at last.
