

I Remember

I remember the hot concrete against my feet.
The blue pool water splashing everywhere as I jumped in.
When I walked out of the pool, the warm air turned into an icy breeze, slapping me in the face.
I remember the juicy hamburger that I ate at a restaurant
close to the beach.
Its juiciness made me want to devour every last bite of it.
We went to the gift shop and I saw the most beautiful bracelet.
It had radiant round beads and glistening charms.
Its colors were just like the cool and breezy beach everyone loves.
The emerald green, dark blue, and sky blue.
